

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE MIDDLE DISTRICT OF NORTH CAROLINA

BASF AGRO B.V., ARNHEM (NL),
WÄDENSWIL BRANCH,
BAYER S.A.S., and MERIAL LIMITED,

Plaintiffs,

v.

CHEMINOVA, INC.,

Defendant.

C.A. No. 10-cv-274-WO-WWD

PLAINTIFFS' OBJECTION TO CONSOLIDATION OF MARKMAN
HEARINGS IN THE CHEMINOVA AND MAKHTESHIM CASES

Plaintiffs respectfully submit this Objection to Consolidation of Markman Hearings in the Cheminova and Makhteshim Cases. On April 6, 2011 the Court held a teleconference with the parties in the Cheminova case regarding the possibility of consolidating the Markman hearing in this case with that tentatively scheduled in a related case (No. 1:10CV276) (the “Makhteshim case”).<sup>1</sup> Because consolidation would necessarily require delay of the preliminary injunction proceedings in the Makhteshim case due to Cheminova’s injection of expert issues into Markman proceedings in this case, Plaintiffs oppose consolidation. With respect to the ‘848 and ‘943 process/manufacturing patents, which are not in suit in the Makhteshim case, Plaintiffs oppose consolidation for the additional reason that it would not even potentially contribute to more efficient resolution of the two cases.

Accordingly, Plaintiffs respectfully request that a separate Markman hearing for this case be scheduled after the close of discovery.

<sup>1</sup> Subsequently, the parties in the Makhteshim case have conferred and agreed to the following tentative schedule in the Makhteshim case:

- May 2, 2011: Markman hearing on ‘010 and ‘743 method/application patents
- May 4-5, 2011: Preliminary injunction hearing

I. ARGUMENT

A. Cheminova Inserted Experts Into Markman.

The November 17, 2010 Scheduling Order in this case set no Markman (claim construction) hearing date. (D.I. 61) Prior to claim construction briefing, Plaintiffs agreed to leave open the possibility for coordinating the Markman hearing in this case with that in the Makhteshim case. However, coordination of a Markman hearing with the Makhteshim case became impractical as a result of Cheminova's unilateral and deliberate decision, unlike either Plaintiffs or the Makhteshim case Defendants, to rely on expert declarations in its opening Markman brief. (D.I. 70, Attachments 1 & 2)

Plaintiffs did not include expert declarations in their opening claim construction brief<sup>2</sup> and only submitted expert declarations in response to those of Cheminova. (D.I. 78, Attachments 5 & 6) Cheminova went even further, relying on additional expert declarations in its Markman responsive brief. (D.I. 84 & 85)

In contrast, neither Plaintiffs nor the Makhteshim case Defendants relied on any expert declarations in any of the Markman briefs in the Makhteshim case.

Further, as noted in Plaintiffs' Opposition To Defendant's Emergency Motion For Scheduling Conference (D.I. 91), Cheminova rejected Plaintiffs' offer to join in seeking consolidation of the Markman hearing with that in the Makhteshim case if Cheminova agreed that the parties would mutually not rely on any of the expert declarations, making expert depositions unnecessary before a Markman hearing. Thus, Cheminova repeatedly has taken steps to ensure that <sup>2</sup> Expert evidence is not necessary, and in fact is disfavored, in Markman proceedings. Phillips v. AWH Corp., 415 F.3d 1303, 1318 (Fed. Cir. 2005) (en banc) ("extrinsic evidence consisting of expert reports and testimony is generated at the time of and for the purpose of litigation and thus can suffer from bias that is not present in intrinsic evidence.").

full expert discovery must be completed before any Markman hearing can be held in this case. (See, e.g., D.I. 90; Exs. B, C to D.I. 91)

B. The Necessary Expert Discovery Cannot Be Completed In Time

Formal expert discovery has just begun in this case, with the service of opening expert reports on April 6, 2011. Responsive expert reports are not due until April 27, 2011. Afterwards, at least the four experts who have thus far opined on Markman issues in this case will have to be deposed prior to a Markman hearing – as Cheminova concedes in its Reply Brief in Further Support of Emergency Motion for Scheduling Conference. (D.I. 92) (“[B]efore a Markman hearing is held and claim construction submitted to the Court, some period of expert discovery addressed to the substance of these declarations will be needed.”)

To make matters worse, Cheminova has offered one of its experts for deposition on May 2 – the day the Markman hearing is tentatively scheduled in the Makhteshim case, and offered the other two experts for deposition on May 4 and May 9. (See Ex. A, attached hereto.) Further, Cheminova proposes that following expert depositions “some limited supplemental briefing of claim construction issues will need to occur prior to a Markman hearing... to provide the Court with the fruits of that expert discovery.” (D.I. 92, ¶11) Thus, by Cheminova’s own admission, much of the expert discovery necessary to conduct a Markman hearing in this case, and any resulting supplemental briefing, will not even have begun before the May 2 Markman hearing tentatively scheduled in the Makhteshim case.

Cheminova’s filing of a premature summary judgment motion has further frustrated the possibility of completing expert discovery in time for a coordinated Markman hearing. As noted in Plaintiffs’ concurrently filed Objection to and Motion to Postpone Briefing on Defendant’s Motion For Summary Judgment, Cheminova has filed a summary judgment motion prior to the start of expert discovery. Absent the Court’s intervention, Plaintiffs must expend unnecessary resources, prior to the Markman hearing tentatively scheduled in the Makhteshim case, responding to the premature summary judgment motion. This is highly likely to further delay the conduct of expert discovery predicate to a Markman hearing in this case.

Thus, because of Cheminova's own actions, including its deliberate choice to insert experts into Markman, coordination of a Markman hearing with the Makhteshim case would now be unworkable without postponing the Markman hearing tentatively scheduled for May 2 in the Makhteshim case. This would, in turn, unacceptably require postponement of the May 4-5 preliminary injunction hearing in the Makhteshim case. Accordingly, Plaintiffs oppose consolidation.

C. There Is No Reason To Consolidate Markman On The '848 And '943 Patents

The '848 and '943 process/manufacturing patents are not in suit in the Makhteshim case and relate to completely different subject matter than the '010 and '743 method/application patents that are common to both cases. The process/manufacturing patents cover how fipronil is made and the chemistry involved. The '010 and '743 patents cover how fipronil is applied as a termiticide to protect a structure. Thus, neither judicial economy nor convenience to the parties would be furthered by consolidating a Markman hearing on these unrelated patents with the Markman hearing tentatively scheduled in the Makhteshim case. For this additional reason, Plaintiffs oppose consolidation with respect to the '848 and '943 patents.

II. CONCLUSION

For all of the above reasons, Plaintiffs object to consolidation of the Markman hearing in this case with the Markman hearing tentatively scheduled in the Makhteshim case. Instead, Plaintiffs respectfully request that a separate Markman hearing for this case be scheduled after the close of expert discovery.

Alternatively, if the Court decides to consolidate the Markman hearings on the '010 and '743 method/application patents on May 2, Plaintiffs request that no expert testimony be permitted either by live testimony or by Declaration. In that event, Plaintiffs further request that the Markman hearing in this case on the '848 and '943 process/manufacturing patents be held after the close of expert discovery.
